

Orland To Sponsor Charity Game

Orland and Palos Play For Charity On Thanksgiving

Charity will benefit by one of the greatest rivalries of prairie football when Palos Park plays the Orland Park team at Daniel's field at 143rd & Keene avenue at Orland Park on Thanksgiving day afternoon. This charity game will bring together two evenly matched teams which are traditional rivals and will see in action some of the best talent in prairie football. Klein of Blue Island, Maddox of Illinois, Ludwig and Bodine of Englewood will be the stars for Orland. For Palos, Snyder, Mahaffay of Englewood and Tracy of Parker.

Both teams are putting in long sessions of practice in preparation for the game, particularly the Orland eleven who have erected flood lights at the Prestwick A. C., for night practice.

The Orland Park community band will furnish the music during the Thanksgiving day game. The kickoff will be at 2:30. Everyone is invited to come and bring their friends.

NOTE:

We the undersigned members of the Relief Committee go on record as having heartily agreed to arrangements made by the Orland Park football team to sponsor this charity game and we hope that everyone will come out and show their loyalty, both for the relief committee and for the football team.

Mokena High to Present Comedy

Mokena patrons are promised a real treat Tuesday evening, Nov. 24th at 8 P. M., when the High School students will present the comedy entitled, "The Galloping Princess". This is a three act play of pathos and humor and intense moments that will thrill and delight the listener. See the poor little street child in Cousin Dickum's pajamas and you will laugh and love till the last moment. The cast under the direction of Miss Baker are practicing faithfully to make this one of the best plays of the season.

Special music and dancing features are to be the attractions between acts. Between the first and second acts the Mokena Community Band will play and the Mokena High School Boys' Glee Club will sing. Between the second and third acts the Mokena High School Girls' Glee Club will sing and Dorothy Eiler will entertain with a delightful solo dance. Come and enjoy the evening. Tickets are now on sale by the pupils.

Mokena Basketball

Team Plays Joliet

Team Sun. Nov. 22

The Mokena Basketball team is coming along fine. We hope to have a good crowd out at our first game, Sunday November 22nd when we play St. Cyrils team. Game called at 2:00 o'clock sharp.

If John Marti would quit going to Joliet Sunday afternoons and come out to practice we might have a better team. Kohl will not be in a few games because of his athlete's foot.

The Light Weights have a new manager, Mr. Willis Hall who intends to improve the team.

Muehler still falls all over his feet.

Mager still plays the same floor game. Folks should come out and see Ed. Walsh play. He made 592 baskets last practise.

To Hold Big

Thanksgiving Dance

At Tinley Park

A Thanksgiving dance wholly out of the ordinary will be sponsored by C. Sander and Harold Lorenz at the Saenger hall on next Wednesday evening at 8:30 o'clock. The music will be furnished by Tony's Troubadours fast stepping harmony boys and Kathryn and Russ Homer, Chicago premier ballroom dancers in person. The latest in dance steps. You will love them.

If you get hungry you can secure a big portion of golden brown turkey between two slices of delicious bread and a cup of coffee for a nominal charge.

Be sure to attend this affair. Fifty per cent of the proceeds are to be given to the needy family fund.

An added attraction will be the appearance in person of Miss Ruby Simon, recently crowned "Queen of Tinley Park".

TRIANGLE CLUB NEWS

Members of the Triangle Club enjoyed a very unusual meeting last Monday. The treasure hunt brought a lot of pep to the crowd and the girls were lucky and found the treasure.

Prices on Hair Cuts

And Shaves Are

Reduced in Mokena

A reduction in the price of hair cuts and shaves has hit Mokena with the opening of Frank's barber shop in the Royal Blue store building. Hair cuts have been cut down to 35c and shaves to 20c. This is bringing the barber prices back to pre-war times.

Noted Entertainer to Appear In Orland

Carlton King the noted magician and entertainer will present his program at the Orland Park M. E. Church Friday evening, Dec. 4th at 8 P. M. Mr. King has appeared before many of the present and royal families of Europe in this capacity. He presents an evening of mystery, entertainment and fun that young and old will enjoy.

It is only possible to get Mr. King because of the present depression period but a good crowd must be guaranteed to have him. A more detailed announcement will be made later as to the events of the program.

The proceeds from this entertainment will go to the Community Center and boys and girls camp fund.

Thieves Steal Knives,

Grindstone, Pump

Thieves have been busy around Frankfort the past week. They broke into the Folkers slaughter house and stole a grindstone and a number of knives. On the Tom McGlashen farm where 2400 head of sheep are feeding, a pump and the pump jack was stolen from the well and the casing was partly pulled out and bent over.

Elmore Social Service

Club Offers Many

Valuable Bunco Prizes

The Elmore Social Service Club held a special meeting at the home of Mrs. Robbins last Friday afternoon. The following officers were elected: President, Mrs. Chapman; Vice-President, Mrs. Shaw; Secretary, Mrs. Kleven; Cor. Secretary, Mrs. Robbins; Treasurer, Mrs. Deever. The president, Mrs. Chapman, appointed Mrs. Towle as program chairman, Mrs. Schultz as publicity chairman. It was voted to have two meetings a month on the first and third Wednesday nights; first being a business meeting and second a social one. A great deal of business was transacted concerning the charity bunco to be held in the Saenger hall on November 20th at 8 o'clock. A ton of coal will be awarded for a door prize also a turkey will be awarded and a great variety of beautiful prizes, including floor lamps, meats, candy and many other useful articles. Do not miss it.

Refreshments served by the committee consisting of home made chili, cheese, crackers and coffee.

If in need of a good cook, call on Harold Lorenz. The club certainly feels proud of you Harold!

After this another interesting game was played, lucky winners were Tom Robinson who scored six and Miss Dorothy Goebel with 5.

It pays to read poetry girls and boys.

Well maybe next time something new and different and maybe you will be the lucky one, who knows?

In behalf of the members we thank the committee for a most enjoyable evening. Here's hoping something new and novel next time.

Everyone wended their way home happy.

Church Choirs Plan

Many Activities

JUNIOR CHOIR PARTY

The Junior Choir will have a party at the church Saturday afternoon instead of the proposed trip to Chicago. This party will be a very unique party, an automobile party that will take place in the church basement. The choir practice will be at 2:00 P. M. and the party will follow. It is planned to have a party each month for the choir and at each party, there will be a committee of the mothers who will assist Miss Lylas Kay with the refreshments and the party. There will be four mother's each committee and different ones each month.

SUNDAY SERVICE

All are invited to the Sunday morning service at 11 A. M. Rev. Sanders will conduct a special Thanksgiving service.

SENIOR CHOIR

The Senior Choir will hold their practise Saturday evening this week due to the party Friday evening. Plans are underway for a Christmas Cantata. There is place for a number of new voices in the choir now. Voices for the bass section are especially needed.

Tinley Relief Asks

Aid of Citizens

The Tinley Park Relief Association held a meeting on Nov. 13th in the village hall. While the association is moving slowly, it is moving surely and will in most all probability, make the goal which an organization should make.

The attendance was smaller than anticipated. The active workers should be encouraged by better attendance. This is a work in which everybody should help in some manner.

Help can be rendered in the following manner: Donations of service, money, clothing, food or fuel.

This is a challenge to everybody in this community to do their best.

It is also a challenge to those who need help, to come forward and offer their service in return for the aid which will be given to those who are able, the committee feels that they would rather pay them for services rendered, than to make their charitable gifts.

Let your wants be known to the chairman of the association, Mr. Paul Rauhoff or one of the following investigating committee:

Mrs. Lulu Rogers, chairman, Mrs. Anna Clemens, Mrs. Clara Goessel.

Mrs. Lulu Rogers reports that used clothing is coming in very slowly. Won't you please help her out. Mrs. Rogers has done a lot of work for Tinley Park. How it would gladden her heart, if you would give her a shower of used clothes.

Donations and pledges have begun to come in. It has been hoped by the association that no personal canvases would be made but this will probably have to be done if Tinley Park will attain its quota.

Tinley Park's needy will first be benefited by Tinley Park's collections.

One of the big items of income, which is being looked forward to, is the big dance to be given by the dance committee. This is headed by Bert Fulton, chairman. So we expect it to go over big.

Bert has not released any details yet, except the time and place so we expect he has a surprise in store for us. The time will be December 5th. The place, the new Tinley Park school auditorium.

Relief work has already been started. To keep it up, active support is asked from everybody who is able to do so. Come on "Let's Go."

Tinley Park Wins

Over Midlothian

In Exciting Game 6-0

Tinley Park Football Team met the fighting Midlothian Eleven on the home grounds last Sunday for what proved to be the first win of the season for the local team.

The weather was ideal for football and especially acceptable to the many fans who saw the Middlers crushed and torn apart by the onslaught of Asher, Robinson, Hartman and J. Asher, the Tinley backfield stars.

Line smashes and dashing runs were responsible for many injuries given the Midlothian Eleven.

The march for a touchdown started soon after the second half was under way. Robinson took Bladen's kickoff on the 30 yard line and returned to his own 42 yard mark. Robinson hit left tackle for 3 yards then J. Asher went around right end for two more, Winnie Asher ripped the entire center wall of the Middies for 25 yards more, Messenbrink subbed for little Johnny Gottham on the line and thins began to hum some more. Hartman skidded left end for another 7 yards and again W. Asher reversed his field and crashed through center to score the only touchdown with but 10 minutes to go. The extra point was missed on a bad pass. Midlothian came back strong with a passing attack which brought the ball to Tinley's 15 yard line as the game ended.

The entire Tinley Park team showed one of the best brands of football ever played on the local field. Habenicht at center kept his line fighting every minute of the game. English, Rocco and Gotham did the necessary guarding and opened holes in the line for the charging backs, while Lucht and Messenbrink were making spectacular stops all afternoon. The wing positions were well manned by the Develin boys, Johnny and Kenny. Due to injuries, Bush and Wilbur Funk, Ed. Hartwig, Kreugar, Kenny Asher and Paul Nelson could not be used and it is hoped that they will be in shape for the game next Sunday on the home grounds against the powerful Midlothian lasses. This game will decide which is the best team as both have won a game each.

New Lenox Farmer

Threatened In Will

County Milk War

The Will County dairy war which has claimed much attention over the state following the heavy loss of live stock in an incendiary fire on the Lantz dairy farm near Plainfield, Jay R. Butler well known former Mokena farmer, who is now running a dairy farm west of New Lenox, has reported to the Will County sheriff's office, that he has received several threats that if he did not stop delivering milk to his patrons in Ridgewood near Joliet, he would receive the same treatment meted out to Lantz. Mr. Butler has asked for protection.

ORLAND MAN CELEBRATES

85th (BIRTHDAY ANNIVERSARY

John Cooper, who has been a resident of Orland township for 81 years, celebrated his 85th birthday anniversary at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Joseph Creer last Sunday. A big dinner was served to 34 guests. Mr. Cooper received quite a number of gifts. He is remarkably well and active for a man of his age.

MOKENA P. T. A. TO MEET

The Mokena P. T. A. will hold their next meeting at the school on November 24th at 3:30 p. m. All mothers are asked to attend.

TINLEY PLAYS

CHARITY FOOT

BALL NOV. 26

More than one thousand spectators are expected to attend the 11 a. m. football game Thanksgiving day between the fast Beverly Flashers and the Tinley Park A. A. on the Tinley Park gridiron.

The game Thanksgiving day will be the last act in the drama of football that has been playing to a satisfied audience since early in October at Tinley Park. With the building of Tinley's football team, which made slow but sure progress, a very evenly matched battle will take place thru the good and true sportsmanship of the Chicago team, which is giving their service toward this worthy charitable cause.

The record of the Parks team is not so hot, but followers of football know that a comparison of scores is a lot of hokey. It should be a bang-up battle from gun to gun, the better team winning. It will be the last chance of the year for the boys to do their stuff before the town fold, and while we won't predict any 95 yard runs, there will be plenty of football played.

It has been clearly shown that Tinley Park can have a winning team made up of local lads only. The credit can be given to all those people that were behind the fellows and let them know that they had their support.

Remember 11 a. m., Thanksgiving day morning. Sixty minutes which are sure full of vim-vigor and vitality. A real appetizer for the big (continued back page)

ORLAND PARK BAND NEWS

The Orland Park Community Band wishes to announce that the increase in membership has made possible the reduction of the dues to twenty-five cents per week.

We have openings for new members in the Clarinet, Trombone, Bass and Mellaphone sections and would like anyone who is interested in learning to play one of these instruments to visit a rehearsal any Thursday night at the Orland Park School. The instruments listed above are the only sections not completed. The band has been growing continually and we want to make it one of the best. Why not come and help us? Under the leadership of our new director, Mr. McKay, the band is planning a concert to be given in the near future.

Taxpayers Meet

At Frankfort

Nov. 27th

A meeting of the Frankfort township unit of the Will County Taxpayers Association has been called for Friday evening, November 27th at 8 o'clock at the Frankfort school auditorium. Every tax payer in the township is urged to attend this meeting to see what is going on and to voice his or her opinion. Remember the date and above all be sure to be present. When the taxpayers of the county can show a solidly organized organization the politicians will give ear to their demands and will not assume a defying attitude as is now the case.

Taxpayers At

Mokena Form

Township Unit

The taxpayers of Frankfort township organized a Frankfort unit of the Will Co., Taxpayers Assoc., at a meeting held at the Mokena school auditorium last Saturday night.

Joseph Kohl, Frankfort township assessor opened the meeting by introducing Mr. H. B. Grommon of Wheatland township, head of the Will County Taxpayers Association who gave a very comprehensive outline of the work being done by that organization. Mr. Grommon stated that the cost of government in this county has grown to the point now where taxation is becoming a burden to the farmer and small home owner. He showed that the county board has increased its appropriations over $300,000 in ten years or at the rate of $30,000 a year. The present appropriation is for more than $700,000. The speaker further stated that it was time that the taxpayers called a halt to any further increases in appropriations or taxes. He took a rap at the special session of the legislature, saying it was considering ways and means of creating more taxation instead of finding methods to reduce taxation.

Mr. Grommon showed that the Will County political machine is well organized and firmly entrenched and that the county office holders and politicians are always ready with a variety of excuses and of arguments as to why the Will County taxes and county appropriations are high. He pointed out that some of the county office holders justify the high cost of government in the county by declaring they have so much work to do that they must even work nights. Mr. Grommon said this statement may be true but that these ambitious workers were not working nights for the interest of the taxpayers.

Another point brought out by the speaker was that out of every 11 persons gainfully employed in the United States, one is a government employee. Also, that out of every $6 gross income, $1 goes for taxes.

Mr. Grommon said that he and his association was making an exhaustive investigation of county income and expenses and that after the investigation is finished the unit of each township will be called in conference with the county association and the findings made known regardless of whom it hits and the matter of adjusting the matters investigated will be up to the tax payers of the county to determine. Mr. Grommon said that his association can only go ahead as far as the taxpayers of the county will back them up.

Dog Reveals Death of Master

How a dog revealed the suicide, by hanging, of his master was told at the inquest at Lewisham, England, over Sidney A. Phippen. William Shackleton of East Dulwich, said that he was walking over waste ground when a little white dog ran up and jumped around him. "I tried to send it away," he said, "but it would not go. I said, 'Where is your master?' and the dog began to bark furiously. It led me to a man leaning against a tree and hanging from a rope."

When TEETHING makes HIM FUSSY

One of the most important things you can do to make a teething baby comfortable is to see that little bowels do their work of carrying off waste matter promptly and regularly. For this nothing is better than Castoria, a pure vegetable preparation specially made for babies and children. Castoria acts so gently you can give it to young infants to relieve colic. Yet it is always effective, for older children, too. Remember, Castoria contains no harsh drugs, no narcotics—is absolutely harmless. When your baby is fretful with teething or a food upset, give a cleansing dose of Castoria. Be sure you get genuine Castoria with the name:

THANKSGIVING— An Old Indian Custom

Indian Dance at Taos during a thanksgiving festival

By EDITHA L. WATSON

TANDING on the edge of his little cornfield, the Hopi farmer looks at his crop and smiles. His lips move, and gentle words come from them—words which carry so much of heartfeltness that we might guess their meaning from the warmth with which they are uttered, and know, because they are spoken softly as well as earnestly, that they were addressed to Those Above, whom we call The Almighty.

"Kwa kwi, kwa kwi," is what the Hopi says: "thanks, thanks!" And in these words he expresses one of the most characteristic of Indian customs, that of giving thanks on every occasion and no matter how slight the pretext.

We may smile at the thought of uttering thanks for the presence of a visitor; that his health is good; if a child who has fallen and hurt itself slightly, begin to smile again; if rain comes—for any or all of the small matters which fill every day. Yet we, who pride ourselves on our manners, and who are prompt to acknowledge the slightest favor from a fellow-human, cannot help but admire the etiquette which calls for acknowledgment to God also; and when we realize that all these seemingly slight events are beyond the unaided power of man to bring about, we feel that we have been ungrateful to take so much for granted without bothering to acknowledge the source.

Not content with unending thankfulness, the Indians also said grace, sometimes both before and after meals. To the words of the little prayer were added an offering of food, which was cast into the fire as the grace was spoken. "Receive, oh source of my ancestry, and eat!" said the Zuni as he performed the rite. "Spirit, partake!" murmured the Dakota woman, and her husband echoed the whispered prayer and offering of gratitude.

In the Pueblo land, no cooking was undertaken without an offering. A pinch of meal preceded the bread into the oven; a bit of each sort of food was placed in the fire, with a thought of thanksgiving for past and future, before meals. The smallest children had their hands guided in this little ceremony, for the spirit of gratitude to Those Above for everything, and for food above all, was strong in every Indian heart. Clothing they could skip, if necessary; shelter they could do without, but life itself depended on food, and they were grateful for it.

It is strange how nearly the grace before meals of white men and red coincide. Both express thanks, the white man by words, the Indian by his offering of food as well, and both ask blessings to come. A Zuni grace runs as follows:

"Makers of the trails of our lives and ye spirits of our ancestors, of this add ye unto your hearts after the manner of your own knowledge, and bless us with fruitful seasons, needed water, and age of life."

It must have been a very lovely world in which the ancient red men lived. There were all the beauties of untouched nature to behold; there were tasks to keep the hands busy, and prayers to occupy the heart and mind. The Navaho prayer:

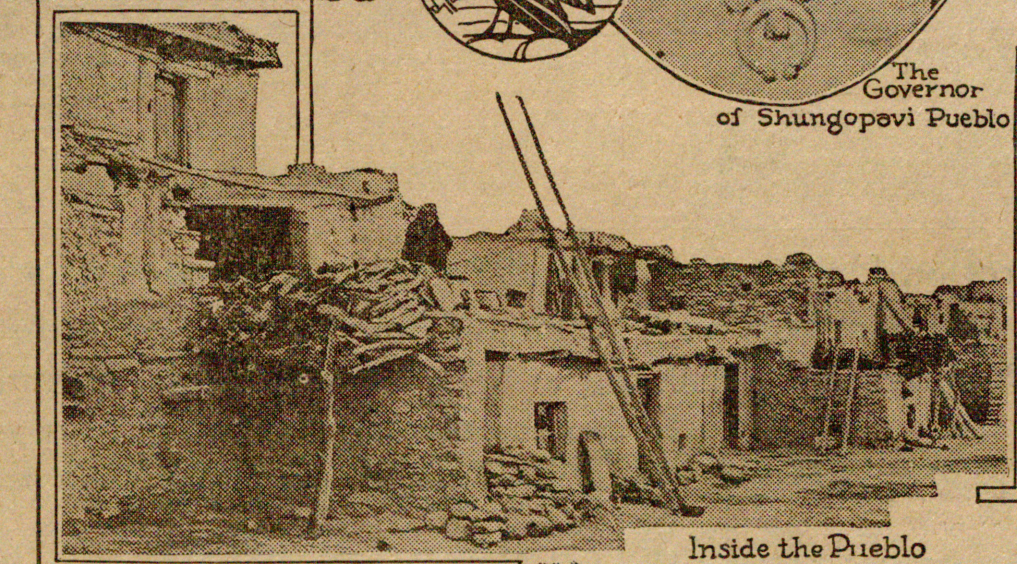

"Make beautiful all that is before me. Make beautiful all that is behind me. It is done in beauty."

was answered daily to all the tribes, and out of this serene beauty of their Earth Mother, there grew a very strong religion, the essence of which was thanksgiving.

There is a beautiful Tewa ceremony which occurs about harvest-time—that of giving the perfect seeds in charge and allowing the Earth Mother to rest for a while. The finest seeds of all sorts are searched out by the Kossa, a summer priesthood, and a few of each kind are sanctified, guarded, and planted about ten days before the rest of the crop is put in. In the fall, the perfect seeds of these selected plants are gathered, and at the conclusion of a feast of thanksgiving, the Kossa give them to the Quarrano, a winter priesthood, to guard until the next planting-time.

At this time, out of gratitude to the Earth Mother, strong medicine is made that she may sleep after all her toil. All spring and summer she has given of her flesh in all forms of nature to her children. Surely she is tired and needs to rest. The feasting is done, the next year's seeds laid by, and now comes a period in which the grateful Indian people keep quiet, making no noise that that beloved Mother may sleep. No loud talking is allowed in Tewa towns, and every noise is hushed, until she has had her rest. Here is true thanksgiving—primitive, naturally, but sincere, and expressed in terms of human-kind.

The dances and ceremonies which preceded various feasts were something like an enlargement of the grace before meals. Harvest-time meant happiness, and it also brought with it the obligation of giving thanks, so by combining the celebrations with rites, the Indian enjoyed both and did not neglect either. There is a little Cherokee tale which illustrates the custom of celebrating before feasting:

Seven wolves went out hunting and caught a fat groundhog. Their prey, considering that with presence of mind there might be a chance for absence of body, reminded them that people always danced for gratitude when they had something good to eat, giving the Green Corn dance as an example. He urged the wolves to do likewise, and offered to teach them steps and to sing for them. The wolves, although they were very hungry, eagerly agreed to hold this dance of thanksgiving, and during their celebration the groundhog escaped.

The Green Corn dance, to which the animal alluded, is one of the favorites among Indian ceremonies of thanksgiving, although it is held at the time of green corn—late summer. Among the Creeks this festival was the occasion of forgiveness, when injury and hatred were forgotten. The ceremonies lasted from four to eight days and were marked by rejoicing over the first fruits of the year.

The Pueblos also hold a green corn festival, beautiful and symbolical, a sort of grace before the harvest. Then later in the year, about the time of our own Thanksgiving day, there are harvest festivals, when the prayers of gratitude rise endlessly to Those Above, as the happy people celebrate with ceremony and feasting the gifts which the Earth Mother has bestowed. In one ancient Pueblo dance, great trays full of the finest vegetables, bread, and meats, were thrown about and trampled into the earth, forming a great offering to express the thanks of the people.

Although shelter and clothing are as important to us as food, we have not left off the age-old association of food with celebration. Indeed, Thanksgiving day centers around the dinner table. At first a fast-day, the early American colonists gradually assimilated the old Indian customs, and today the annual feast of gratitude is a real American institution. Hence it seems all the more fitting that most of the dishes which are traditional to the day should be those which the Indians themselves enjoyed and celebrated in the eating.

First of all, there is that grand American bird, the turkey. Nothing like him was ever seen before, and the newcomers thought that he must be some relation to the peacock, as he strutted in his iridescent finery. Perhaps there is nothing more delicious than young wild turkey fed on pinon-nuts, which the Indians of the Southwest knew. With this noble bird always go potatoes, an American product which the natives enjoyed long before the coming of Columbus. In fact, in those pre-discovery days, America furnished some of the choicest and most palatable foods which we know of. Some of them grew, also, in the eastern hemisphere, but many were distinctly and distinctively American.

The Indians had real cause for thanksgiving in the variety and tastiness of the food. True, there was no beef, but buffalo humps were a delicacy which has been celebrated in practically every history of early Americans, and ribs, juicy and tender, roasted over coals, would rival the famous cookery of the Old world, yet requiring no other sauce than hunger.

But do not think that hunger was the necessary ingredient of an Indian meal. Cooking was not the haphazard operation we might believe it to have been. There were fifty-three ways of preparing corn, and we should offer thanks on our own accounts for this Indian food, as we eat succotash, hominy, and other corn dishes prepared, long before our time, by the "savages" of America.

There were deer and mountain sheep for a change from buffalo, and fish from the many streams, and ducks and other birds were numerous and varied, so that no one need live on turkey. The great "kitchen middens" found along the coast prove that oysters were a greatly enjoyed Indian food, and turtles also helped in the menu.

While we are hunting for Indian dishes to place on the Thanksgiving dinner table, we may give thought to the appropriate beverage for this truly American meal. Of course, the average man will demand coffee, which is not a native drink, but mate, which has a high caffeine content, would be the nearest drink of the sort. Teas made from dried flowers or flavoured twigs and roots would be truly Indian decoctions, but scarcely enjoyable to our trained palates. Tiswin, the Apache beer made of sprouted corn, would be appropriate, but it is alcoholic to a considerable degree. The only real Indian beverage which appeals to modern tastes is chocolate, favorite drink of the Aztec kings.

After dinner, in that hour when it is too early for the football game and every one is too contentedly filled to care about exertion anyway, the air begins to grow hazy with tobacco smoke. Here, too, is an old Indian custom closely associated with the giving of thanks. Few tribes used tobacco to smoke as we do; rather it carried messages to the gods in its clouds of smoke. The pipe was presented, or the smoke blown, to the four world-quarters, above and below, to symbolize the offering of prayer in all directions. It was puffed during ceremonies, and at councils.

The Chippewa and many other tribes use tobacco as a thank offering. When they cut a birch tree for its bark, they bury a little tobacco at the roots, giving thanks as they do so. The Pueblos tie small parcels of tobacco to their prayer-sticks, and the tribes which have dog-killing ceremonies fasten bundles of tobacco to the legs and neck of the sacrificed animals, bidding them to carry these to the spirit land with them, there to present them with prayers for health and plenty for the tribe.

Little of that ancient gratitude is left; and we, in our hard modern shells, celebrate the day of thanksgiving by feasting without ceremony. Yet in our hearts we have studied the question, "what are we thankful for?" and find many things which made us glad to be alive—among them, perhaps, the fact that we are not Indians!

We owe acknowledgment to Providence, that much is certain. And because we, after all, are a thoughtful and a courteous people, some time during Thanksgiving day we will echo in our hearts the words said by our predecessors, centuries ago:

"Thanks, that it is so!"

WHEN FOOD SOURS

ABOUT two hours after eating many people suffer from sour stomachs. They call it indigestion. It means that the stomach nerves have been over-stimulated. There is excess acid. The way to correct it is with an alkali, which neutralizes many times its volume in acid.

The right way is Phillips' Milk of Magnesia—just a tasteless dose in water. It is pleasant, efficient and harmless. Results come almost instantly. It is the approved method. You will never use another when you know.

Be sure to get the genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia prescribed by physicians for correcting excess acids. 25c and 50c a bottle—any drug store.

The ideal dentifrice for clean teeth and healthy gums is Phillips' Dental Magnesia, a superior tooth-paste that safeguards against acid-mouth.

Book Thief Sees the Light

Employees of the Muskogee public library came to work recently to find 69 volumes, stolen in 1929 and 1930, piled at the outside return box. A letter accompanying the books said the author had "forsaken the ways of sin," and asked forgiveness.

"I am sorry that these are all the books I have left; I burned the other three boxes before I received the light," the note said.—Kansas City Star.

SORE THROAT

FIVE minutes after you rub on Musterole your throat should begin to feel less sore! Continue the treatment once every hour for five hours and you'll be astonished at the relief.

This famous blend of oil of mustard, camphor, menthol and other ingredients brings relief naturally. Musterole gets action because it is a "counter-irritant"—not just a salve—it penetrates and stimulates blood circulation and helps to draw out infection and pain. Used by millions for 20 years. Recommended by doctors and nurses.

To Mothers—Musterole is also made in milder form for babies and small children. Ask for Children's Musterole.

Bees Carried to Work

Grazing the bees in the blooming heather to make up for the failure of the clover to blossom earlier in the summer was the novel device resorted to this year by farmers on the west coast of Sweden. The wet and cold spring stunted the clover, but the heather bloomed profusely and at night the bees were transported in their hives to the ridges where it abounded.

This Little Girl Got Well Quick

"Just after her third birthday, my little daughter, Connie, had a serious attack of intestinal flu," says Mrs. H. V. Turnage, 217 Cadwalder St., San Antonio, Texas. "It left her very weak and pale. Her bowels wouldn't act right, she had no appetite and nothing agreed with her."

"Our physician told us to give her some California Fig Syrup. It made her pick up right away, and now she is as robust and happy as any child in our neighborhood. I give California Fig Syrup full credit for her wonderful condition. It is a great thing for children."

Children like the rich, fruity taste of California Fig Syrup, and you can give it to them as often as they need it, because it is purely vegetable. For over 50 years leading physicians have recommended it, and its overwhelming sales record of over four million bottles a year shows it gives satisfaction. Nothing compares with it as a gentle but certain laxative, and it goes further than this. It regulates the stomach and bowels and gives tone and strength to these organs so they continue to act normally, of their own accord.

There are many imitations of California Fig Syrup, so look for the name "California" on the carton to be sure you get the genuine.

In a recent address, Dr. G. L. Dunagan of the University of Illinois declared that increased yields ranging from three to six bushels per acre result from careful selection and culling of seed corn. On the test plot C. E. Canterbury, Cantrall, utility dent, a special grade of corn, made the highest yield.

Following out the recent suggestion of Gov. Louis L. Emmerson, the birthday of Theodore Roosevelt was appropriately observed throughout the state on October 27. This was the seventy-third anniversary of his birth.

At the joint convention of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Engineers recently held in Bloomington, Walter Young of Bloomington was elected president, and E. R. Young of Springfield was elected secretary-treasurer. Next year's convention will be held in Springfield.

Bids on construction of a sewage treatment plant at the Vandalia state penal farm will be received Tuesday, November 10, at the state architect's office. Other proposals will include: Power house addition to Research and Education hospital, Chicago; alterations to main building at the Northern Illinois State Teachers' college, DeKalb; repairs to the One Hundred Twenty-second Field Artillery armory at Chicago, and the Kewanee armory.

A recent report of the Illinois commerce commission showed that formal and informal proceedings instituted in the electric utility field by the commission, caused reductions in rates charged by twenty of the thirty-nine utility companies rendering service in Illinois. These twenty utilities, the report stated, served approximately 90 per cent of all users of electricity in the state.

The institute for juvenile research, a part of the state department of public welfare, recently announced that county judges throughout the state are offered its services in examining children who are to be committed to various state institutions. Dr. Paul Schroeder, director of the institute, pointed out that only a few of the 2,000 children annually committed to state homes are subjected to adequate physical and dental examination.

With an infant mortality rate 14 per cent lower than that of the nation as a whole, Illinois now ranks eighth among the states. In only seven other states was the rate lower than that of Illinois, and none of the seven have half as great a population as Illinois. For each 1,000 births in Illinois last year, there were 56 deaths among infants. This was a decline of 36 per cent when compared with 1920.

At the annual meeting of the Scott County Farm bureau, which was held recently, N. S. Winder of Chicago, executive secretary of the American Farm Bureau federation, advocated a systematic program for re-forestation of sub-marginal lands as a means of helping to solve the surplus crop problem which has handicapped the farmers of the state and nation. Mr. Winder declared that waste and fire are diminishing the nation's timber resources four times as fast as they are being renewed.

According to a prediction made by Director Henry H. Kohn of the state department of purchases and construction, the state's part of the Lakes-to-Gulf construction program will be finished for the opening of the Century of Progress exposition, May 1, 1933. Bids on the project will be opened November 24 and, at Gov. Louis L. Emmerson's request, water division engineers have arranged to place as much construction under contract as soon as possible in order to relieve the unemployment situation.

According to a recent opinion of Attorney General Oscar E. Carlstrom, a county board has no authority to settle with a former county treasurer and his bondsmen for less than the full amount of county funds tied up by reason of a bank failure. The opinion pointed out that the county is protected by the treasurer's bond, and the board has no authority to waive payment of any part of the funds if the treasurer and bondsmen are obligated to pay the full amount.

According to W. F. Shahan, executive secretary of the Illinois Tuberculosis association, the Christmas seal campaign will be formally launched on Thanksgiving day and will continue until Christmas.

On October 30, the 14,000 school teachers of Chicago were given pay for the month of September. This was the first pay day that the Chicago teachers have had since last April. The teachers have not been paid for the period between last April and September 1.

On October 31, Gov. Louis L. Emmerson issued a call for a special session of the Illinois general assembly to consider emergency revenue legislation. The special session was called to convene at ten o'clock November 5.

Gregory T. VanMeter was named recently by President Hoover to be collector of internal revenue for the first district of Illinois in Chicago. Mr. VanMeter will fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Mrs. Myrtle T. Blackledge.

State highway police, under the supervision of Chief Walter L. Moody, have made 29,704 arrests since the first of 1930. Fines and costs assessed by the local courts, as the result of those cases, totaled $445,098.14, according to a recent tabulation made in the highway division office. The report reveals that the crime of driving while intoxicated brought the highest fines and costs—a total of 703 arrests and fines and costs amounting to $79,010.53 resulting from that cause.

The standardization committee recently appointed by Gov. Louis L. Emmerson was called into conference on November 3, by Director Rodney H. Brandon of the state department of public welfare. The commission discussed plans for the production of four classes of staple commodities—auto license tags and road signs, steel furniture, knitted underwear and soap—in accordance with the law which provides for the use, by Illinois and other governmental bodies, of the products of prison industries.

According to a recent report of the state department of public health, whooping cough is the most prevalent epidemic disease at this time in Illinois. Reports average about 220 new cases weekly. Pneumonia is beginning to manifest the seasonal increase with about 125 new cases per week, while typhoid is on the downward trend.

Attorney General Oscar E. Carlstrom recently advised that a county board of supervisors may use its own discretion in selecting a newspaper in which to publish a record of its proceedings and need not issue bids.

Ralph E. Bradford, director of the state department of conservation, recently announced that an income in excess of one million dollars was received by the department during the past biennium. This is a new high record and the vast increase is attributed to the fact that hunting licenses and licenses to fish with hook and line have grown in popularity. Director Bradford stated that the collections from the sportsmen of the state, now in excess of $500,000 per year, finance the entire cost of conducting the fish and game propagation and protection service of the state.

In a closed conference called by the Illinois Agricultural association, approximately 300 county farm bureau leaders from more than 90 Illinois counties recently met in Springfield to consider revenue legislation which will probably come up when the legislature meets in special session, to discuss possibilities for more favorable credit to relieve distressed farmers, and to adopt plans for lifting current price levels of farm commodities, particularly corn.

An income tax, a tobacco tax, and a special fee on motor trucks and busses were urged in the report of the executive committee of Gov. Louis L. Emmerson's tax conference. The income tax suggested by the executive committee would range from 1 to 6 per cent, the latter on net incomes above $25,000. Exemptions of $1,000 taxable income would be allowed unmarried persons and $2,000 to married couples. Exemptions would include $200 for each child under eighteen years or other dependents.

Two Illinois persons have been cited by the Carnegie Hero fund commission to receive awards for outstanding feats of bravery. They are: Eugene Robert Oatman, twelve-year-old school boy of Rockford, who saved his companion from drowning; Oliver Diehl, sixty, a truckman, Morrison, who saved Henry B. Elmendorf from being killed by a train.

Gov. Louis L. Emmerson has issued a proclamation urging all citizens of Illinois to pay tribute to the dead and living soldiers of the World war by observing Armistice day, November 11, with appropriate programs. The proclamation requests that at the stroke of eleven o'clock in the morning all citizens cease activities and, with heads bared, face east for a period of two minutes in memory of the soldier dead. It also urges that the flag be displayed on all buildings in the state.

Emphasizing the importance of more friendliness and co-operation between the United States and Canada, Chester D. Pugsley of Peekskill, N. Y., recently announced that he had endowed the MacMurray College Institute on Pan-American Affairs for two more years. The third annual institute was held at Jacksonville on October 27.

Basing his opinion upon reports received from E. G. Horner, chief poultryman, to the effect that demands for state inspection service have surpassed all former records, Stuart E. Pierson, director of the state department of agriculture, recently predicted that Illinois will produce more pure-bred chicks and hatching eggs during the 1931-32 season than ever before.

The Illinois Master Plumbers' association will hold its fortieth annual convention in Springfield, January 19, 20, and 21, 1932.

MOON'S EFFECT ON THINGS OF EARTH

Wireless Found on List It Influences.

Never quarrel with your wife whilst the moon is full!

That was a piece of advice given recently by one who has spent a great part of his life in smoothing out domestic differences.

Here is one instance in hundreds of age-old beliefs in the influence of the moon on the nature and the doings of man. Can there be any truth in them?

There are few superstitions not founded on a bedrock of fact if only we dig deep enough to discover it. There are, for instance, many practical considerations against passing under a ladder. It is unlucky for you if the ladder slips and falls on you, or if you happen to receive part of the contents of a pot of paint; it would be equally unlucky for the occupant of the ladder should you inadvertently brush against it, causing it to slip.

Superstitions dealing with the moon are found in every part of the world, and underlying them all is a belief that the moon has an influence upon the well-being not only of men, but of animals and plants. Most pagan religions have a moon goddess.

In considering the question, we cannot help being struck by the number of ways in which the moon affects our lives. It revolves round the earth in approximately twenty-eight days, and from the moon man derived the original twenty-eight-day month, divided into four weeks, one for each quarter. The moon is the main cause of the tides, and it may be millions of years since hairy ancestors of ours first noticed that the highest tides occur about the times of full and new moon, the lowest at the first and last quarters.

Dogs, wolves and foxes bay the full moon, though no other bright light affects them in this way. Most animals are disturbed when the moon blots out the sun during an eclipse. The biggest catches of certain sea fish are made at times of the full moon. In the tropics one sea creature, a particular delicacy, comes to the surface in countless thousands during the full moon, and is seen at no other time. In some parts of the world, where the atmosphere is very clear, the moon's light is so strong that "moonstroke" has to be guarded against. Weather changes are most likely to occur when the moon enters a new quarter.

A totally unexpected instance of the moon's influence has been discovered recently. It has been found that long-distance wireless transmissions on certain wave lengths are greatly affected by the state of the moon. This is due to changes in the electrical state of the atmosphere produced by moonlight.

The moon is a cold dead world which appears to absorb all the heat that reaches it from the sun, but to reflect a very large part of the light. Moonlight is particularly rich in ultra-violet rays, and we know that these have a definite influence upon human, animal and plant health. For this reason alone it is quite possible that the influence of the full moon upon us may be greater than is generally believed. Throughout the ages it has been believed that insane people are most violent at times of full moon; the word "lunatic" itself comes from the Latin luna, meaning the moon. Nor can we deny that, in the moonlight as well as in the springtime, a young man's fancy lightly turns to thoughts of love.

Quite possibly, too, the pull of the moon, which causes tides not only in the seas, but also in the solid earth, has its effect upon us. These would naturally be most marked at the full and new moon, when the pull is strongest.

Straightened Out

Doctor—Did that medicine straighten your husband out all right?

Wife—Yes, we buried him yesterday.

Cold Insurance

He carries it with him, ready for just such times. That little box of Bayer Aspirin. If he catches cold, what of it? Bayer Aspirin will stop it. If his throat feels sore, he will end the soreness with one good gargle made from these tablets.

Dangerous complications can follow the neglect of "a common cold." Every case of tonsillitis began with "just a sore throat!" It's a wise plan to take aspirin after any undue exposure to bad weather, or whenever there is any chance that you've caught cold. If it's genuine aspirin it can't possibly hurt you; and how it does banish the aches and pains caused by colds, neuralgia, neuritis, lumbago, and even rheumatism.

Bayer Aspirin will insure your comfort through the worst cold season. The more susceptible you are to colds, the more you need it. Does not depress the heart.

The Greatest TIRE VALUES Your Dollars Ever Bought

THE EXTRA VALUES built into Firestone Gum-Dipped Tires are not equalled by any other tire. They are patented construction features that give extra strength and extra safety. A Gum-Dipping makes every cord stronger. The cord body is tougher. Internal friction and heat, the usual results of speed and quick stopping, are practically eliminated. You get longer tire life and greater safety. A Two extra cord plies under the tread inseparably join the tread and cord body. They cushion road shocks. You get extra protection against punctures and blowouts. A See these facts for yourself. Drive to the Firestone Service Dealer near you. Compare sections cut from Firestone and Special Brand Mail Order Tires and others. Then equip your car with Firestone Gum-Dipped Tires and get the greatest tire values your dollars ever bought.

County Officials To Make Reports

All county officials have agreed to furnish detailed reports of the income and expenditures of their offices to the committee representing the Will County Tax Payers' association, which is conducting an investigation of county finances.

"We are fully in accord with the action of the taxpayers organization in preventing waste of county funds and will cooperate to the fullest extent with the committee making the investigation," it was said by a spokesman for the county officials who held a meeting behind locked doors at the court house this week to discuss the investigation.

Committee At Work

The taxpayers' committee is composed of H. B. Grommon of Wheatland, chairman; Dr. A. H. Bruning, Joliet real estate dealer; and Clinton Hulbert, retired Channahon merchant. Both Mr. Grommon and Mr. Hulbert are former supervisors and are familiar with county affairs. Dr. Bruning is representing the Joliet real estate board on the committee.

Several county offices are being visited each day by this committee. On Friday, November 13 the investigators were scheduled to visit the county tuberculosis sanitarium to gain first hand information regarding conditions there. They also expected to visit the county poor farm on the same trip. Indications are that the county farm will be overcrowded this winter and the supervisors have been contemplating opening temporary quarters for the overflow in Joliet.

County Court Report

The county court was one of the first offices to supply a report on its income and expenditures. Expenses of this court have increased during the last year and the increase was attributed by Judge Ralph C. Austin to the large number of dependent children who have become wards of the court and to the increase in the number of mother's pensions granted. If present conditions continue it will be difficult for the county to care for these dependents, Judge Austin declared. Approximately $10,000 has been expended this year, dependent children, alone. Aid in supplying mothers' pensions was obtained from the state this year for the first time in history.

Committee fees of the county board will also be scrutinized by the investigating committee, if it follows the recommendation of the taxpayers' association. The action of the association was taken at the request of taxpayers of Homer township. The Homer resolution asked that the committee pay particular attention to the committee fees, and salaries of the county veterinarian and superintendent of schools.

Board Of Review Fees

Two members of the taxpayers' committee said that the subject of fees for members of the board of review would be "considered". The state law provides that the members of this board shall receive no per diem compensation for services rendered after September 7.

The Will County Board of Review since September 7th has been receiving a fee of $50 a day for its three members and two clerks.

BOYS FROM SIX COUNTIES
REPRESENTED IN MAMMOTH
C. Y. O. TOURNEY TO GET
OLYMPIC TEAM TRYOUTS

CHICAGO.—Winners in the Catholic Youth Organization's monster amateur boxing tournament will be given opportunity to qualify for the 1932 Olympic games, Rev. Gerald P. Scanlan, director of the organization, announced today.

A total of 1,612 boys representing 403 parishes in the six counties of Cook, Lake, Will, Grundy, Du Page and Kane, making up the archdiocese under Cardinal Mundelein and Bishop Sheil, are entered in the tourney which will be climaxed on the night of December 4 with finals and semi-finals in the Chicago Stadium.

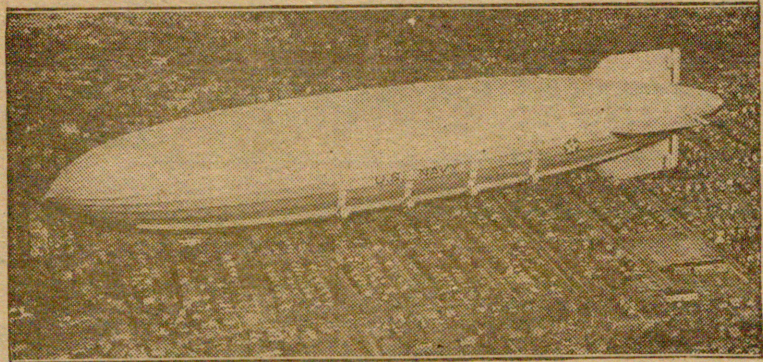

Hundreds of youngsters, ranging in age from sixteen on up, from such surrounding cities as Joliet, Chicago Heights, Waukegan, Berwyn, and practically every other community, including rural centers within the archdiocese jurisdiction, are now competing in sectional and district eliminations going on nightly.

The spectacle is said to be the biggest and most outstanding athletic contest ever staged in the Middle West. It is attracting interest all over the world, because the occasion marks the first time any accredited Catholic organization, with full permission of Church authorities, has embraced boxing as an additional social service outlet for the development of character and manliness, among its members.

"We are uncovering some remarkable boxing material," Father Scanlan revealed. "Some of the boys we are bringing to light. I am confident, will be able to make the Olympic team if they continue all through the tournament with the same style they are demonstrating in the preliminaries."

Advance sale of seats for the Stadium event on the night of December 4, gives every indication that the affair will be a sell-out. Father Scanlan said.

Navy's Newest Dirigible, "Akron," Has Much Telephone Equipment

On her maiden flight the Akron, newest and greatest ship of the air, soars majestically over her namesake city.

The largest flying telephone system in the world, with 19 telephones, switchboard and three miles of cable, but weighing less than 255 pounds, took to the air when the Navy's giant new airship, the Akron, made its first test flight last September.

The switchboard is located in an opening between the control room and the chart room, and may be operated from either side. It is operated by designated officers as part of their routine duties.

Necessity for weight conservation was responsible for the use of aluminum wherever possible in building the system; the switchboard box is made of welded aluminum and the complete switchboard weighs only 30 pounds.

Telephones Aid Maneuvering

When the ringing key on the switchboard is pressed a musical sound—approximately the key of C—issues from the instrument to which the call is going. All instruments on the ship can be "rung" at once if desired, and the sound can be used for transmitting code messages. Should the captain of the Akron desire to talk to all stations at once, he may do so.

The 19 telephones are located at strategic points. Three are to be found in the gangway leading from the officers' quarters above the control room to the bow. The first of these is a general utility instrument serving the officers' quarters, the next is further up the gangway adjacent to important fuel valves, while the third is in the bow itself, and is extremely necessary as the ship approaches a mooring mast.

Two observation and gun platforms are located on the top of the Akron, and telephones are provided there. Gangways extend along each side of the ship providing access to quarters, airplane compartment and engine rooms, and a number of instruments are to be found in these gangways. A telephone is located about thirty-five feet from each engine room, so that it is a matter of comparatively short distance from an engine compartment to a phone. Instruments are also to be found in the generator room, airplane compartment, observation stand in the extreme stern, and in the emergency control room in the lower vertical fin.

Ship Has 4,480 Horsepower

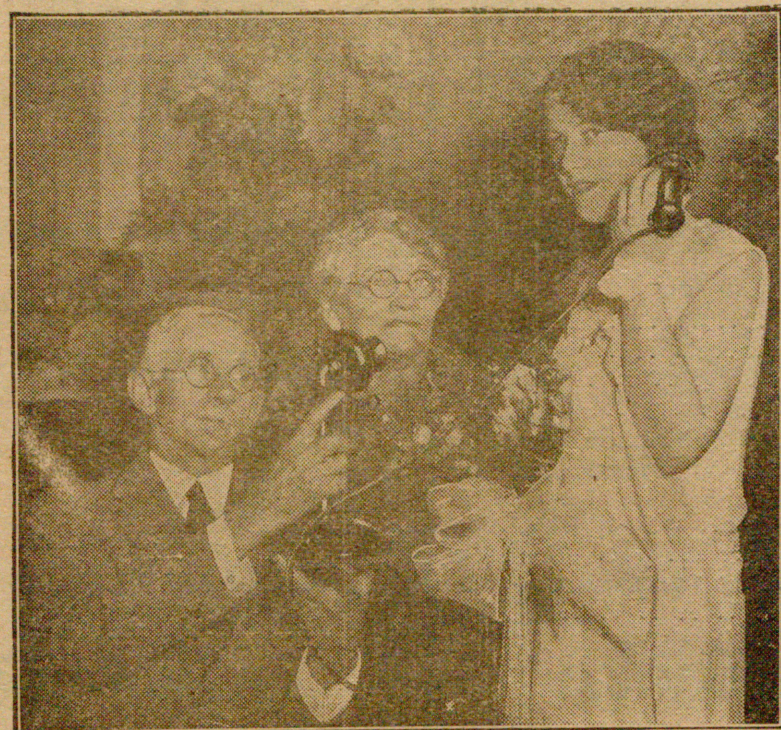

A line leading out through the nose of the ship providing access to any outside telephone system when the ship is on the mooring mast. Provision is made in the emergency control station to plug in a line to a head set which can be worn by a man on the ground to assist the captain in ground maneuvers.

The instruments are similar in appearance to the square box type sometimes seen in factories, and all switches are gas tight. Ear pieces fitted with rubber cups to eliminate outside noises are provided. The boxes are suspended by springs to prevent interference by vibration.

The Akron is 785 feet long, 132 feet in diameter, and has a capacity of 6,500,000 cubic feet of helium.

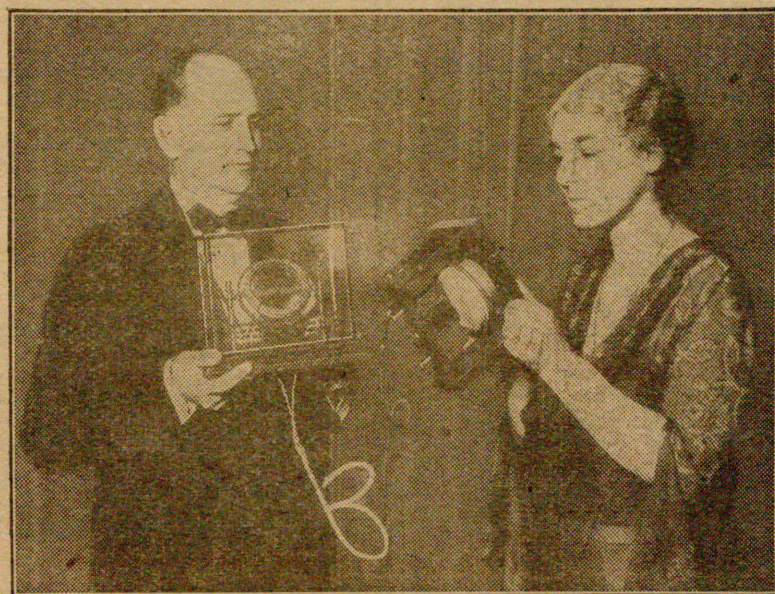

The eight 560-horsepower engines are mounted in engine compartments in the hull itself, with power being delivered to the propellers by a rigid drive shaft system and bevel gear. Useful lift of the ship is estimated at 91 tons, and its top speed at 83 miles per hour.

Golden Wedding Guest Is Telephone Bride

While helping her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. M. F. Stewart, to celebrate their Golden Wedding Anniversary at Santa Monica, Cal., Miss Thelma Passwaters was married by telephone to Gordon White in Kinsley, Kans. Half the continent separated bride and groom as the vows were exchanged over the wire.

Bell's Daughter Uses Model of First Telephone

When Sergius P. Grace, Assistant Vice President of the Bell Telephone Laboratories, lectured before a meeting of the National Geographic Society in Washington, he was assisted by Mrs. Gilbert Grosvenor, daughter of the telephone's inventor, Alexander Graham Bell. Speaking into a model of her father's invention which first successfully transmitted the human voice, Mrs. Grosvenor was clearly heard by the audience through modern amplifying devices. She is pictured holding the model of this historic instrument, while Mr. Grace is showing a piece of the actual wire over which speech was first transmitted and which was incorporated in a telephone circuit used for demonstration purposes that evening.

A woman 101 years of age received the first telephone call to be made through the new $200,000 Big Rapids, Mich., telephone central office which was opened in August.

TELEPHONE CALL BREAKS SILENCE OF 20 YEARS

A telephone call from Baltimore to Waterville, Me., recently brought a seafaring son in touch with his parents for the first time in twenty years. It was made by Howard R. Pickering, now a pay clerk of the Coast Guard. Pickering ran away to sea two decades ago and had not been in touch with his family since that time.

Individual Peas

WHETHER or not the French are the best cooks in the world may be disputed, but that they prepare vegetables better than any other nation no one can deny. One has only to peep into the great markets of Paris to see with what respect this article of food is regarded—beets, carrots, and onions are gathered into bouquets, as a florist arranges his flowers, and peas are laid upon comfortable and decorative beds of green leaves.

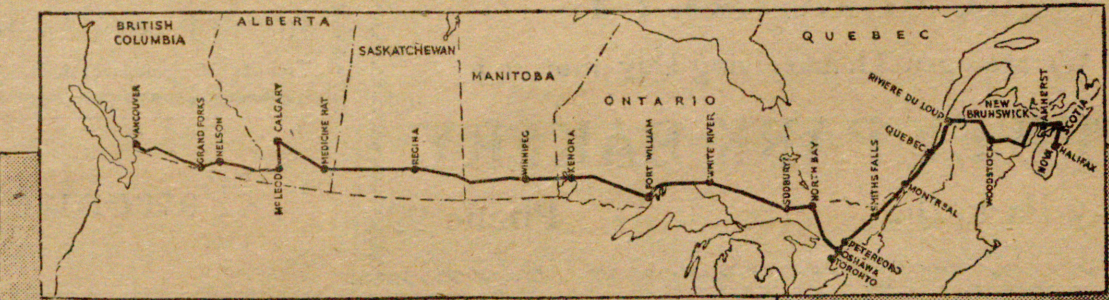

A Separate Course

Peas, like other vegetables, are always served as a separate course at French tables, and all who have visited France remember the delicious "petits pois" which appear upon practically every menu. The secret of their fine flavor is that they are always cooked with a little onion. If you will put into the contents of a can of peas one small white onion finely sliced and plenty of butter and then warm them, you will yourself discover the truth of this statement. Canned peas are also delicious in—

Dumplings with Peas and Carrots: Sift two cups flour, one teaspoon salt and four teaspoons baking powder, and cut in one tablespoon fat. Add three-quarters cup milk; drop by spoonfuls on a greased steamer; steam twelve to fifteen minutes. Remove to hot platter. Put contents of one No. 2 can peas in two cups highly seasoned white sauce. Surround dumplings with alternate piles of peas and buttered carrots.*

Coast-to-Coast Telephone Line Spans the Eight Canadian Provinces

Ewing Galloway Photos

Stretching from Halifax, N. S., on the east to Vancouver, B. C., on the west, this transcontinental telephone line will link the Atlantic and Pacific coasts via an all-Canadian route early in 1932. Passing through the eight Canadian provinces, and 4,263 miles long, this voice path represents a co-operative effort of Canada's seven major telephone systems. Left: A scene in Vancouver. Rev. Paul E. Schauer, Pastor

Divine services in the Immanuel Lutheran church will be conducted at 10 o'clock in the German language, by the Rev. Paul E. Schauer. Sunday school will meet at 9 o'clock. Every child should try to be present every Sunday in order to take part in the Christmas program which has been begun.

On Thanksgiving day a special service will be conducted in the English language at 10 o'clock in the morning by the Rev. Paul E. Schauer. Remember, we should fear and love God that we may not despise preaching His word, but hold it sacred and gladly hear and learn it. Let us all come and thank God for all the blessings showered upon us.

Every Wednesday evening at the hour of 7:45 o'clock the adult Bible Class meets in the church for its regular Bible study. All are welcome. The Church. Lutherans teach that there is an INVISIBLE Church, which consists of all such as in their hearts truly and sincerely accept Jesus Christ as their Savior; that this Church is one; that Jesus Christ is its only Head and Lord; that all members thereof enjoy equal rights; that it may be found wherever the Gospel of Christ is known; and that it will endure forever.

Lutherans also teach that there is a VISIBLE Christian Church, consisting of all such as profess the Christian faith and gather about God's Word; that among these there are hypocrites, defenders of false teachings; and supporters of unchristian practices; and that it is the duty of every sincere Christian to unite with that section of the visible Church which stands for pure preaching and right practices and to avoid religious fellowship with all such as depart from the divine word. How Corn Helps

IN counting her blessings at this time of year, one of the things for which the American housewife can sincerely give thanks is our native vegetable, corn. The Pilgrim Fathers who instituted the national festival of Thanksgiving learned from the Indians how to raise and cook this vegetable which was unknown before that to civilized man, and appreciation of its nutritive and epicurean merits have been increasing ever since.

Has Many Uses

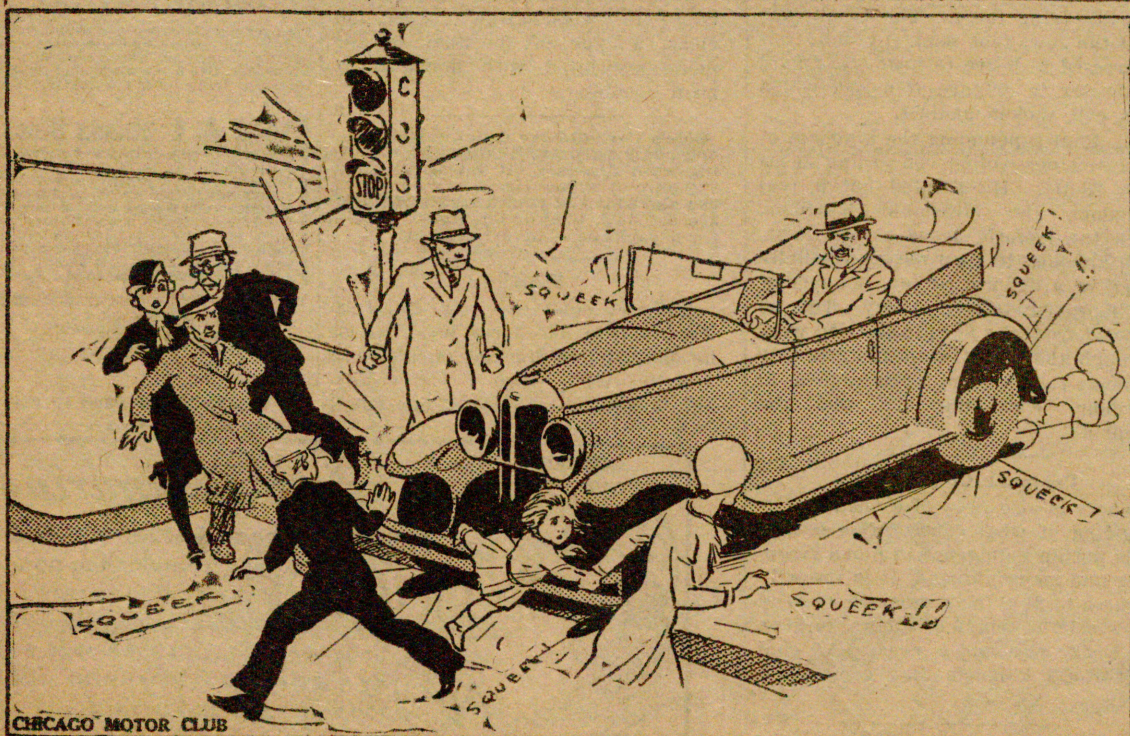

Canned corn is in season all year round, and, when heated and seasoned, it is delicious just as it comes from the can. There are also appetizing recipes for its use in conjunction with other foods. Here are two which have been tested and found particularly good and very suitable for an Autumn breakfast or luncheon.

Hamburg and Corn Scramble: Sauté in two tablespoons butter, one medium onion, chopped. Add three-fourths of a pound of hamburger steak and stir until brown, add one can of corn, two teaspoons salt and one-fourth teaspoon of pepper, and heat.

Breakfast Corn: Chop fine two large cold-boiled potatoes and sauté brown in two tablespoons fat. Add one cup of left over canned corn, and brown again. Season well with salt and pepper. Break into this two whole eggs, and scramble lightly together. Broil eight slices of bacon and serve with the prepared corn. Both these recipes serve eight.*

THE STORY

Six bandits board the steamer, Midnight Sun, tied to the bank of the Mackenzie, hold up Father Claverly and other passengers, kill Jimmy Montgomery, formerly of the Mounted, and get away with gold dust and furs. Corp. Bill Hardsock reports the crime to Sgt. Alan Baker at the Mounted Police post at Fort Endurance. Baker has a dispute with his incompetent superior, Inspector Haskell, over plans for the capture of the bandits.

"Hmmp! Maybe," Haskell lit a cigarette, and went on studying the map. Turning, he ordered:

"You'll take the launch and the five men, Baker, and go up the Alooska. If you don't overtake those bandits before reaching the Forks, leave the launch there, split your party, three men each, and follow up both those branches."

Alan objected, "But three men against six, the six who pulled a trick like that robbery—three mightn't be able to handle them. They've got murder charges over them, they've got a fortune in their possession; they're going to put up a finish fight."

"Three men can handle them. Three men with the law behind them."

"A city cop may be a squad by himself," Alan interrupted, "but in the bush a man is a man. A legal bullet don't kill any deader than an outlaw bullet. Men who'll hold up a big steamer in broad daylight and who face the gallows if caught, aren't going to be paralyzed by the sight of a uniform. I believe my party shouldn't split. We ought to stick together and whip up that left branch. That's the fork they'll take."

"You're merely guessing," Haskell said coldly. "You don't know which branch they'll take. By my plan you'd be sure to overtake them on one branch or other."

"Yes, and have half my men shot up. I'm responsible for them. I know what that kind of responsibility means. You're hog-tying me with orders I know are dead wrong."

Haskell tapped the table with his penknife. "I've given you my reasons, Baker, and listened to yours. If you refuse to obey orders, you'll stay here at the post, and I'll put Corporal Hardsock in charge of this detail. Take your choice."

Alan was not the fool to believe Haskell was bluffing. The man would keep him here and demote him for refusing to obey a command. He had been waiting months for just such a chance. It was a question of holding out against those ignorant instructions or getting away with the men and making the best of it. Perhaps, after all, he would catch up with the bandits before they reached the Forks.

Beaten, weary of arguing, he gave in. "All right, inspector. I'll follow both branches."

To cut off further delay he whirled abruptly on his heel and strode out.

Burgoon came down from barracks. A little later Whipple came and timidly took his seat in the launch. Alan and Bill and Young were storing aboard guns, tent, grub and blankets. On the terrace above, with a book in her lap, Elizabeth Spaulding watched casually.

Then Frank Pedneault, demonic driver of the powerful launch, slid into Alan Was Not the Fool to Believe Haskell Was Bluffing.

the wheel seat and slipped in the gears; and headed north, down the Mackenzie.

They were at last away on the pursuit.

But all Alan's ardor had gone. All his leaping urge to be on the chase had gone. Premonition whispered, and its whisper chilled him. As he glanced around at his men, at the comrades he was leading and was responsible for, he was thinking that tomorrow this time two or three of them might be dead—somewhere up the spruce-buried Alooska.

CHAPTER III

A Call to Vengeance

During that dash down the Mackenzie, Alan's thoughts were not enviable. . . . "They used Margaret Fournier as a means of making their getaway from the steamer. It worked so well then that they might try the idea again. They might try to capture Joyce and use her as a sort of hostage to protect themselves."

But somehow he did not greatly fear they would do this. He remembered the gun she always carried, his own gift to her on her twentieth birthday. A black automatic, a tiny thing like a toy, it nevertheless was blunt and effective as a terrier bulldog. That big red-bearded bandit who had threatened to put a bullet "sugar" atween the eyes of Margaret Fournier, would likely get one between his own if he tried any brutality with Joyce MacMillan.

To Alan it seemed pretty clear that Bill in his haste and excitement had made a mistake about those men being strangers to every one aboard the steamer. It didn't look possible. They knew this country, knew it intimately. It took years to learn the ins and outs of so huge a region. But they knew. Alan concluded: "They aren't strangers, of course. Bill just made a mistake."

Half-hidden between two blanket packs Constable Whipple sat fingering his rifle, peering ahead anxiously, as though at any moment he expected to meet the outlaw canoes here on the Mackenzie. Alan watched him with something of scorn in his eyes. Whipple was constantly spying upon the other men, listening with long ears, reporting everything that happened and a lot that did not.

Forty miles below Endurance, sweeping near to shore around a great bend, Alan looked ahead and sighted the Midnight Sun out in midstream, plowing steadily up south. At his gesture Pedneault swerved the launch and snubbed its headlong speed, and Bill began unloading one of the canoes. As the two craft drew nearer, Alan rose up and signaled that he wished to come aboard the steamer. The boat stopped, a ladder was let down. Paddling across in the birchbark, he and Bill hurried up on deck.

Margaret Fournier was safely back on board. Several of the men, hastily patching one of the smashed canoes, had followed up the Alooska a mile and found her on a willow island where the bandits had set her off.

When Alan came on deck, almost his first sight was of Jimmy Montgomery's little girl, perched upon a pile of cargo, showered with care and attention from every one. As he glanced at the tiny golden-haired tot, Alan thought of her mother dying less than a year ago, of her young father cut down today by an outlaw's bullet; and he had a swift vision of the bleak orphanage, the friendless and homeless life, which lay ahead for her, now that Jimmy was dead. He was not deceived by the attention she was getting now. Every one was all sympathy for her today, but that would cool mighty quick; and then she'd be thrown into some orphanage, maybe along with half-breed and Indian children. Alan thought, "She's Jimmy's child; Jimmy was my partner; it's up to me to do something about her."

With nothing more definite than this in mind, he directed Ashmun, the white-haired skipper "You put her off at Endurance tonight. Give her to Elizabeth. Say I'll be back in two or three days."

Following the old captain, he stepped softly, hat in hand, into the one well-fitted cabin of the steamer. He remembered Jimmy as a trail partner and a quiet gentle soul and the most utterly fearless man he had ever known. Stone silent he stood beside the berth looking down for the space of half a minute, sick at heart, his eyes blurring. Why had it been Jimmy who was cut down?—a young man, a young father, the best and bravest of them all.

Then like a small whisper in his loss, a thought came, edged with pride in Jimmy and the manner of his death:

"You were the only one who drew a gun. You knew they'd kill you . . . a belt-gun against six rifles; but you stood up and shot. You were always that kind; and so was Curt. Now you're both gone; now I'm alone, of us three."

The desolation was unbearable. Bill following, he turned and went out of the cabin into the sunshine of the deck. A grim mood had come over him, a mood shot through with personal and deadly intention. He was no longer merely the stern and efficient representative of the law. Vengeance, a burning and righteous vengeance, had entered his heart.

Spider's Ingenious Web Woven Afresh Nightly

Master of geometrical precision and skillful artisan, the fastidious orange-tan orb spider presents a mystery in her arrival at a certain identical moment every evening when with amazing ingenuity she constructs or weaves a new web over the framework of her permanent dwelling, states an article in Better Homes and Gardens.

Although the framework of the simple structure, which consists of three spokes radiating from a single point, is instantly under repair, the finished web is never repaired no matter how damaged it may be. Gux wires are anchored to leaves, blades of grass, with a crow's foot fastening. Then follow the radial lines which retrace the original spokes of the permanent frame. The dainty tatting wheel in the center serves as a feast hall. The last stroke is biting out the floss constituting the hub, which leaves an

With a dozen men crowding around to listen, he questioned Skipper Ashmun briefly.

"Bill said these men were strangers. That can't be. Didn't you recognize them at all? Haven't you got some idea who they were?"

"Alan, I positively never seen a man of 'em till I looked up and there they stood p'inting their weapons at us. And I see just about everybody that goes up and down the river."

"And they knowed the lay of the land like a book," another man spoke up. "That's the queerest part of 't."

Alan was fairly staggered. Bill had reported accurately. The men were strangers.

How under heaven could six men enter this country unknown, unseen? Then, granting they had, granting them strangers, how did they come to know the lay of the land so perfectly?—where to strike, when to strike, how to escape by a straight shoot to their one superlative refuge, the Thal-Azzah.

In all his years of police service he had never met quite so dark a circumstance as this.

As he and Bill went down the ladder, the rail was lined with people wishing them a quick capture, wishing the criminals a swift and speedy justice. Alan did not hear, did not care. But as he stepped into the canoe and with a shove sent it skirling toward the launch, he did hear one voice from some man on the steamer; and it rang in his ears like a croak of evil prophecy:

"Going after men like them, Alan Baker, you'd better take your luck along!"

At the MacMillan trading post Joyce had lighted candles in the kitchen and trading hall. Though she hardly knew just when her father would return from his fur-buying trip, she had kindled a comfortable fire in his bedroom and had prepared a supper of scones and breaded mushrooms and willow ptarmigan which she herself had shot that morning.

As she stood tiptoe at a pantry shelf, away from the crackle and sough of the cook stove, she heard some peculiar noise somewhere out in the night. She went over to the window and there heard it more distinctly—a faint drone that rose and fell with the ground winds drifting out of the spruces.

The puzzling sound grew louder, plainer. Then suddenly Joyce knew. The police launch! Coming up the Big Alooska. Coming slowly because of the treacherous channel, but driving on through the twilight in spite of the danger.

That launch went out only on matters of importance. And this patrol must be very important, to bring the men up a perilous river at this hour. Throwing a cape about her shoulders, she ran through the trading hall, out into the sharp pine-scented air; down to the canoe landing at the river bank.

As she stood on the mud-filmed plank, with the whispering breeze molding cape and dress closely about her vigorous young body, Joyce tried to pray that Alan was not leading this patrol. Her girlish pride was crying out that she did not want to see Alan Baker. Her rational mind was warning that it would be better for her if she never saw him again at all. But no pride or rationalizing could beat down the secret throbbing expectancy of meeting Alan, of hearing his voice, in a few minutes more.

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL Lesson

Lesson for November 22

PAUL IN ROME

GOLDEN TEXT—I can do all things through Christ which strengtheneth me.

LESSON TEXT—Acts 25:1-12; 28:16-31.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Paul in the Great City of the World.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Paul's Life-long Ambition Fulfilled.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—A Prisoner Proclaims the Gospel in Rome.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Paul's Ministry in the World's Capital.

1. Paul Appeals to Caesar (25:1-12).

In order to appreciate this action on the part of Paul it is well to get a synthetic grasp of the experiences which forced him to make this appeal.

1. His trial before Felix (Acts 24). The officials of the Sanhedrin were represented by Tertullus, a Roman barrister. He brought a fourfold charge against Paul:

- a. A pestilent fellow (v. 5).
- b. An inciter of rebellion (v. 5).
- c. The ringleader of a sect (v. 5).
- d. A profaner of the temple (v. 6).

To this charge Paul replied in a clear and dignified manner, setting forth the facts of his life, and demanded that his adversaries bring proof of their accusation. Felix was greatly moved by Paul's testimony concerning Christ, but postponed decision, expecting to receive a bribe from Paul.

2. Trial before Festus (25:1-12). Festus was the successor of Felix. Two years had elapsed, but the Jewish hatred had not abated. Paul's foes in Jerusalem sought to have him brought there for trial, intending to lie in wait and kill him on the way. Festus, willing to please the Jews, purposed to send him to Jerusalem for trial. For this Paul rebuked him, declaring that he very well knew that he was innocent. Seeing that it was impossible to get justice at the hands of Festus, he made use of his right as a Roman citizen and appealed to Caesar.

Festus was taken by surprise and found himself in an embarrassing position, as he was unable to explain to Caesar as to why an innocent man should go to Rome for trial.

3. Trial before Agrippa (25:13-26:32). This was occasioned by the visit to Festus of Agrippa and Bernice. Upon their arrival, Festus told them of his perplexity. Therefore, they expressed a desire to hear Paul. Paul gladly made his defense before them and appealed to them to accept Christ.

II. Paul's Journey to Rome (27:1-44).

1. The ship (v. 6). It was in a vessel of Alexandria sailing from Myra to Italy.

2. The company (vv. 2, 37). Two of Paul's friends, Aristarchus and Luke, were permitted to go with him. Besides these three there were 273 in the ship.

3. The storm (vv. 14-20). The ship made little headway on account of unfavorable winds. Paul advised that they winter in Fair Haven (vv. 9-12), but his advice was unheeded. In verses 14 to 20 we have a most graphic description of the storm. Tempestuous winds as well as soft breezes await God's faithful ones.

4. Paul's serene faith (vv. 21-26). God is as near to his faithful ones on a stormy sea as in the quietude of the home. Paul was not only calm, but bade the people be of good cheer (v. 22). He promised them safety though the ship would go to pieces.

5. The ship's crew saved (vv. 27-44). All turned out as God had promised.

III. Paul's Ministry in Rome (Acts 28:15-31).

1. Welcomed by the brethren (v. 15). They met him at the Appian forum, a distance of about forty miles from Rome. This was the first time he was thus welcomed.

2. Paul's lenient treatment (v. 16). He was allowed to hire a house and live apart, being guarded by a soldier.

3. Conference with the leading Jews (vv. 17-22). He allowed himself only three days to rest. His object was to have a fair understanding with the Jews. He explained the reason for his being there. The result was that the Jews took neutral ground, but expressed a desire to hear what Paul could say in defense of a sect which was evil spoken against.

4. Paul expounding the kingdom of God and persuading concerning Jesus (vv. 23-31). He pointed out a real kingdom, the Messianic Kingdom, with the historic Jesus as the King. The kingdom to Paul meant a definite reign of a definite person, not merely an improved state of society. This he showed from the Scriptures. He went through the Old Testament, carefully showing the kingdom teaching to be in harmony with the law and the prophets.

Personal Consecration

There is also need of a clear understanding of what consecration means. It is not an indulgence in pious yearnings and smug phrases. It is the willingness to face facts squarely, to deny one's self in behalf of others, to give, to work with one's heart and soul that God's kingdom may come upon earth.

Pleasures Not Lasting

The pleasures of sin are but for a season, but the punishment of unpardoned sin is everlasting.

Are you

RUN DOWN?

If you find you're catching cold too easily this winter, take Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil. It will build you up, increase your resistance to colds through its wealth of Vitamin A. Doctors also recommend it for its valuable Vitamin D, and mineral salts, that promote strong bones and teeth. Expectant mothers use Scott's Emulsion. Children grow sturdy on it. Use it every winter day. The pleasant flavor makes it easy to take. Scott & Bowne, Bloomfield, N. J. Sales Representatives, Harold F. Ritchie & Co., Inc., New York.

Astrologer's Game as

Old as Science Itself

Signs of the zodiac have always impressed the general public more than new developments in the field of relativity, which, according to Dr. Dirk Brouwer, of Yale university, is one of the reasons why early astronomers were forced to deal in hocus pocus in order to gain enough money for honest scientific investigations.

Astrologers batten on the public casting horoscopes supposedly based on scientific astronomical data, he said, are as old as science itself.

"Then, as now, the public was willing to give money to some one to peer into the future, but was less inclined to contribute to an earnest, scholarly study," he continued. "Kepler, one of the famous astronomers of the Seventeenth century, was also known as an astrologer, but we have strong reason to believe he had no patience with the role he was forced to play in order to obtain funds for astronomy."

Astronomers of today know that for the most part, the so-called astrological tables are entirely inaccurate, Doctor Brouwer declared. And even if they were correct there never had been any evidence to show a connection between phenomena in the heavens and the lives of men.

"What has happened," he said, "is this: Astrologers take some specific instance or several instances of events which have occurred when the stars were in a certain position. They then generalize on this basis. It would be just as inaccurate to try to reach a conclusion based on statistics by using only a part of the figures provided, except that the figures used would at least have some foundation in fact."

Ostrich Bulldogged by

Bedouin Riding in Auto

It is possible to "bulldog" ostriches from the running board of an automobile. Prof. A. Aharoni, of the Hebrew university at Jerusalem, led a zoological expedition into the Syrian desert to collect specimens of its rare birds and animals. The expedition wanted to capture alive two ostriches. One of the tribesmen stood on the running board of the car and bending over, grasped an almost black ostrich by one of its useless wings as they rode past at terrific speed. The big bird was so powerful that he would have dragged the unfortunate Bedouin off his slight hold on the running board had not one of his brother Arabs held him from the inside of the car in a vise-like hold. They tied the bird and took it into the already overcrowded machine and continued the chase. Another ostrich was already so fatigued that it could scarcely stand a half hour's pursuit. This one was easily captured.

World's Tiniest Baby

Pretoria has what is believed to be the tiniest baby in the world. She was so small at birth that they did not weigh her in case the act of weighing might injure her. At fourteen days she weighed three pounds. She is kept wrapped up in cotton-wool and gets her nourishment through the absorption of olive oil, applied to the skin.

Wooden Shoes

The demand for an economical long-wearing foot covering is now again turning the Italian poorer classes—particularly in the rural districts—to wooden-soled shoes, or clogs, a type of footwear usually more associated with north European peoples.

How Disfiguring!

Pimples and blotches will mar the beauty of any complexion, no matter how lovely it may be otherwise. They are so unnecessary, too, when regular daily use of Cuticura Soap, assisted by Cuticura Ointment, will keep the skin clear and healthy.

Show Movie on Clouds

Soon Berlin crowds may see movies upon the clouds at night. Dr. Manfred Mannheimer, German inventor, is perfecting a huge projector capable of throwing an animated cartoon film upon a low-hanging cloud bank. How to train BABY'S BOWELS

Babies, bottle-fed or breast-fed, with any tendency to be constipated, would thrive if they received daily half a teaspoonful of this old family doctor's prescription for the bowels.

That is one sure way to train tiny bowels to healthy regularity. To avoid the fretfulness, vomiting, crying, failure to gain, and other ills of constipated babies.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is good for any baby. For this, you have the word of a famous doctor. Forty-seven years of practice taught him just what babies need to keep their little bowels active, regular; keep little bodies plump and healthy. For little babies specialized in the treatment of women and little ones. He attended over 3500 births without loss of one mother or baby.

TINLEY PARK

Mr. and Mrs. Conrad Bettenhausen sailed this week for Germany where they will spend the winter as guests of relatives. The brother of Mr. Bettenhausen will celebrate his fiftieth wedding anniversary in February.

The Tinley Park basketball team played a practice game with the "team" of the Commonwealth Edison Co., of Chicago the past week.
 The score was 14 to 18 in favor of the visitors.

On Friday evening of this week the Tinley Park team will play the light and heavy teams of Blue Island at the Tinley gym. The Tinley lineup follows:

Tom Robbins, F. Harold Lorenz,
 F. Doc Bruening, F. Allen Brueg-gemann, F. Henry Boldt, c; Marcus Klepper, G; Elmer Siemsen, G; Walter Mesenbrink, G; Art Lehmann, G.

A partner of Edward Hartwig on the Moore milk route in Midlothian was fatally shot Sunday morning.
 Bandits had attempted to hold up a store that morning and while the store keeper was showing the milkman how he chased the robbers, the gun was accidentally discharged, the charge hitting the milk man in the side. The milkman died shortly after.
 He is survived by his widow and a six year old child.

The picture of Irvin Bettenhausen,

 Chicago papers Wednesday evening in connection with a murder case the police discovered at 115th street and Cicero ave.

Thanksgiving, being a holiday, there will be no mail service, but the Tinley Park postoffice will be open in the morning until 9 a. m.

Rev. and Mrs. Albert Buddenhagen who were called to Creighton, Nebraska the past week by the illness of the former's mother, are expected home this week.

Last Tuesday evening at 7:30 the people of Tinley Park had an opportunity of hearing one of their own artists on the air when Prof. Alexander Corado sang over station WCFL. His voice came in strong and clear. He sang a number of German and English selections.

The Tinley Park Community Ladies Chorus sang Wednesday evening at the Oak Forest M. E. church.

The chorus is holding rehearsals in the Tinley school each week and anyone interested in singing or music is invited to attend and to join.

The play recently presented at the Tinley school for the benefit of the Tinley P. T. A. netted $115.06 for the P. T. A. treasury.

MARLEY

Services at the Marley church on next Sunday will be as follows: Bible school at 10 a. m. Morning services at 11 o'clock and the evening meeting will convene at 7:30 p. m.
 This will be a special program and a large audience is desired by the Sunday Evening Club. The public is invited to attend and help fill the church. The program is under the direction of Mrs. Randall C. Storm and will include an address on the "Passion Play" given by Miss Emma Ackermann, a member of the Lockport township High school faculty. Miss Ackermann will give first hand information of the play, having witnessed the Passion Play in Oberamgau, Germany and is an interesting speaker. Everybody is welcome.

A bunco and card party will be held at the Woodman hall in Goodings Grove, Friday evening November 20th under the auspices of the Ross school of which Miss Mary Frazer is the teacher. Refreshments will be served. Proceeds will go for the benefit of the school. The public is invited to attend.

Henry Beckwith, Sr., of Worth, and son Emil Beckwith and son Elwood of Grand Rapids, Michigan visited at the home of Mr. and Mrs.
 John F. Handorf this week.

Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Haley spent the week end at the home of Mr.
 and Mrs. W. B. Storm in De Kalb.
 James R. Bowen and David Gillett joined them in DeKalb and C. F.
 Haley and Prof. W. B. Storm accompanied them on a motor trip to Earlville, Iowa and visited at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Kais-

The Marley Brotherhood are rehearsing for a minstrel show to be given at the Marley church about the second week in December. Date will be announced later.

Word has been received of the birth of a daughter to Mr. and Mrs.
 Glenn M. Cutler of Plainwell Michigan. Mr. Cutler is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John F. Cutler, former residents of this locality.

Postmasters Asked To Form Hoover 1932 Clubs

Despite provisions that postmasters should not participate in political campaigns, postal heads in cities and villages of Will county have received notices from Washington authorities requesting them to form
 "32 clubs" in their communities to work toward the re-nomination of Herbert Hoover next year.

The first request that such political organizations should be formed —with an entrance fee—were sent to postmasters of the county several weeks ago, it has been revealed recently. The communication pointed out that the postmasters were not to take part in politics but added that they might appoint some well known political leader to head the "32 club" and collect $1 from each member. These clubs must have 32 members, the communication stated.

Postmasters about the county paid little or no attention to the first communication, it is said, these officials believing that such actions would be in violation of the spirit if not the letter, of the regulation which requires them to refrain from political activities.

But apparently the officials in Washington did not forget about the Hoover clubs, and now the postmasters have received a second letter.
 Again the communication stated that the postmasters were not to take part in politics, but requested that they report on their progress in forming the "32 clubs" in their communities.

The second communication made it clear that the postmasters are to proceed at once with the organization of the political groups seeking the nomination of Hoover in 1932 and that at least letters will be received on the subject at frequent intervals until they have taken action.

Inactivity in political circles throughout the county is attributed to the special session of the state legislature at Springfield. After the work of the general assembly is completed campaigns of candidates seeking state offices is expected to get into full swing.

County candidates are reluctant to start active campaigns before the state groups go into action, although several are known to be feeling the public pulse regarding prospects next year.

Congressional candidates of this district are awaiting the decision of the supreme court on the constitutionality of the reapportionment act of the general assembly. Until these candidates know what their districts will include they are in the dark as to how to proceed.

Mokena School News

The Thanksgiving recess will begin on November 26 and run through November 29, with the Christmas vacation coming soon afterwards, on December 24. Christmas vacation will last until January 3.

The Mokena high school gymnasium was the scene of a thrilling basket ball game last Friday evening when Mokena defeated Manhattan 19 to 16. The score at the half was 10-4 in favor of Manhattan. Doore the Manhattan center was put out on fouls in the third quarter. After he was put out of the game the Manhattan team seemed to lose heart and the Mokena boys made basket after basket until they tied the score in the last few minutes of the game.
 The spectators made such an uproar that the referee's whistle could hardly be heard. Then Mokena made two more baskets and in a few seconds the final shot was heard which ended the game leaving the score 19-16 in favor of Mokena.

The Mokena high school second team defeated Manhattan's second team 14-9. The high school second team game did not excite the spectators as much as the first teams game because throughout the game Mokena was always a few points in the lead.

NEW LENOX

Divine services in the Grace Episcopal church will be conducted in

Tinley Lion Dance Hit

The first dance held in the new Tinley Park school auditorium was held Wednesday when the Tinley Lions club sponsored a dance which was very largely attended and went over with a bang. Favors and balloon prizes were among the features of the evening. The Lions lived up to their reputation of making a success of whatever they undertake.

To the Editor:

Saturday Eve, November 14th it was my honor and pleasure to listen to a man speak to a group of people at the Mokena public school and I am wondering if all those present felt the same as I do.

As we all know up to this time day by day, year by year our public servants not only receive their regular salary, fee or whatever the price may be for service rendered, but they look about and get their heads together to devise ways and means of getting more, and more.

Now this man of whom I speak, is of the old type, so long forgotten that we wonder if such a one exists.

As we near the day set aside for Thanksgiving we are reminded of our fore-fathers who when the word went out to meet and discuss the public need, heeded the call one and all and putting personalities aside, worked together for the common good.

Mr. Grummon of whom I speak, comes from Wheatland Township.

A great cry arose all over Will County in regard to the tax question. The Board of Review recognizing the fact that it was a general question called many men together. The outcome was, Mr.
 Grummon being selected as chairman of the tax payers organization, which was formed at that time. Can you imagine what this means? This gentleman gives his time, much of it. He came to Frankfort township to explain the intentions of the organization so that we might organize our unit. It took his entire evening causing him to change his plan as he was leaving from Mokena to go to an eastern city.

Mr. Grummon is giving his time to you and me without price.

Martha L. Hall.

To Hold Bunco

Miss Mary Frances Frazer and her pupils of the Ross school, Dist.
 130 will give a public card and bunco party at the Woodman Hall in 20. Refreshments will be served. Everyone is welcome. A nominal fee will be charged.

Tinley Lion News

A. O. Foskett president of the Tinley Park Lions club is in receipt of an interesting item, showing how the fame of Tinley Park is reaching from coast to coast. Mr. Foskett is in receipt of a letter with clippings from the American Tree Planting Association, which has the story about the Lions Club tree planting project last spring. This was published in a Los Angeles paper on the west coast and in a Charleston, S.
 C., paper on the east coast and in many other papers in between.

Thus does a worth while accomplishment gain recognition through the land and is cited as an example of community co-operation to encourage others to do likewise.

At a meeting of the Lions club relief committee last Thursday evening it was decided to recommend that the Lions Club contribution to the Tinley Park Relief Committee be the sum of $50 with the possibility of more to follow, if needed.

This same evening the Lions Board of Directors held a meeting in which the yearly budget was thoroughly discussed. At the next meeting of the club Monday, Nov.
 23rd this question will be presented for final action. As it will effect all members, their attendance is urgently desired.

Don't forget to come to the charity bunco to be held at the Saenger hall Friday evening, Nov. 20th at eight o'clock. Don't miss it.

Mokena Taxpayers Form Twp. Unit

 Will County Tax Payers Association read a number of letters from other taxpayers units in other parts of the county and reviewed some of the tax problems of Cook County.
 At the close of these addresses the Frankfort unit of the Taxpayers Association was organized with the following officers:

Chairman, John C. Neilsen, mayor of Mokena.

Secretary, Wm. Semmler, editor.

Delegates: F. A. Tooley, J. V.

Hall, Mokena and George Haass,

Mayor of Frankfort. Howard Scheibleich of Mokena was nominated alternate.

Tax matters and all other problems of the township will be handled by this unit. They will have the authority of presenting resolutions to and working in with the main body of the Will County Taxpayers Association.

Mr. Grummon said that the county board at their last session tabled a resolution that the salaries of the county employees be reduced ten per cent in conformity with wage cuts in general.
